

Implementation

Set yourself up for supply chain excellence with a great implementation

---

Ensure you meet critical project milestones, achieve quantifiable results and gain insights into future growth opportunities with our Kinaxis Implementation service.

Our Kinaxis® Services consultants will help you deploy Kinaxis RapidResponse® using the RapidResponse Agile Implementation Methodology – a multi-stage implementation methodology designed to deliver best-practice implementation and accelerated time to value. Bringing years of experience to the table, our consultants will share deep product knowledge and deployment best practices to make your implementation phase, and beyond, a success.

Experience an implementation designed for you

Your company isn't like any other. That's why our team will guide you through an implementation that aligns with your specific business needs. We take a customer-centric approach to supply chain and technology to share best practices in integration, configuration, testing and rollout. Our team will integrate data from your existing systems and configure and personalize a solution that's right for you. We'll provide training and test and manage the solution cutover.

Worried that your supply chain is too global and too complex to carry out a successful implementation? No worries. We have a global presence with key delivery centers spanning North America, Europe and Asia. And whatever your industry, we have experience implementing RapidResponse in aerospace and defense, automotive, consumer products, high-tech, Industrial and life sciences.

A one-of-a kind implementation methodology

Our Agile Implementation Methodology (AIM) provides a structured proven approach optimized for fast implementation of RapidResponse. AIM integrates proven best practices with tools and templates that accelerate the deployment process.

Kinaxis has successfully used our AIM with global Fortune 500 customers. Offering multiple stages and undergoing constant enhancements, AIM enables best-practice RapidResponse deployment, drives increased user adoption and minimizes the amount of change management required for other processes.

Access to unparalleled experience and expertise

Place your trust in our Kinaxis Services consultants. With years of supply chain and technology deployment experience and a wide range of mandatory professional certifications, including RapidResponse, our team is unmatched in implementation expertise.

Dedicated solution assurance experts provide independent delivery and design assurance assessments to pro-actively minimize project deployment risk, deliver value fast and set your company up for supply chain success.

