Enterprise Learning Subscription
A continuous learning program for your global team

The Enterprise Learning Subscription is a scalable role-based program designed for your entire Kinaxis® RapidResponse® user community. As a continuous learning program, the subscription optimizes knowledge retention and deepens user skills over time.

Embedded expertise

The Enterprise Learning Subscription features something many other learning subscription programs don't – a learning expert dedicated to your organization. Offering advanced understanding of RapidResponse and expertise in supply chain management, your learning expert will work with you personally, onsite or virtually, every step of the way, including:

▶ Developing your personalized, continuous learning roadmap

▶ Extending the value of RapidResponse by helping you drive end user adoption

▶ Enabling and mentoring your Center of Excellence (COE) or core RapidResponse team

Rich content

RapidResponse knowledge is in our DNA. A specialized team of certified RapidResponse experts and content developers creates all learning content. They work with Kinaxis product development and COE teams, as well as other Kinaxis experts, from the inception of new product requirements through to their release in the latest version of RapidResponse.

The Enterprise Learning Subscription includes self-paced-courses, expert video series, and much more – content that's available exclusively to subscribers.

You gain immediate access to all new training content as soon as it's commercially available. And if you want to test drive a newly released feature or application before you roll it out, no problem, the Enterprise Learning Subscription gives you the option to explore product updates and enhancements through the latest training content.

What's the good of learning without being able to apply it? The Enterprise Learning Subscription includes unlimited access to your personal hands-on RapidResponse training environment where you can experiment without any risk of impacting your company's data.

Always-on global access

Enter into your subscription knowing your learning experience is built on cloud-based, scalable global platforms. Whether you're on the move, at home or working remotely you have 24/7 access to the Kinaxis Learning Center, where you'll find learning content served up in an easy-to-navigate interface. It's the same user experience around the world.

Skills validation

Sometimes it can be difficult to gauge how you're doing on your learning journey. The subscription includes knowledge checks and personal transcripts to easily monitor progress and reports to track user adoption in your organization.

When you've finished the prerequisite training, we'll pro-actively let you know what Kinaxis certification exam you're eligible to take. We want to give credit where credit's due. Individuals who pass Kinaxis certification exams become Kinaxis-certified. Also, did you know professional associations like APICS and ISM recognize course completions for credit?

Why Enterprise Learning Subscriptions?

▶ Achieve faster time to RapidResponse value with continuous role-based learning

▶ Drive your RapidResponse initiatives forward with a dedicated, certified learning expert who aligns learning objectives with organizational goals

▶ Save time, effort and money by building your internal competencies, skills and expertise, and reducing reliance on external resources

▶ Protect your learning investment through transferable licenses you can reassign – at no additional cost – if program participants leave your company

▶ Boost end-user adoption with learning that normalizes the use and understanding of RapidResponse across your enterprise

You've made a great decision choosing RapidResponse – now let Kinaxis Knowledge Services empower you with the knowledge, skills and confidence to achieve supply chain planning excellence.
